Dear colleagues of the publishing industry

It gives me a great pleasure to introduce to you hereafter this catalogue on "Arab Books Rights".

In our perception, this catalogue is a true demonstration of our sincere desire to introduce our culture to other people particularly those in the West. It is simply an attempt to enlighten all about what we read and write. In our vision; all bookfairs are equally good chances for us to understand others and be understood. We are deeply convinced that we should spare no effort to share knowledge and exchange experiences, throughout translations and researches.

The catalogue is just the first step in this direction. We hope it will trigger a continuous and dynamic dialogue between Arab and Western minds. I sincerely hope that other steps will follow in the near future towards the same aim.

I would like to seize this opportunity to extend our thanks to all those who helped us to produce this catalogue and introduce it in this distinguished event of "Beirut World Book Capital".

Mohamed Abdel Latif Talaat, President
Arab Publishers Association

The sum of books is culture, and not only books.

Seventy-eight publishers contributed to this catalogue, from Bahrain, Egypt, Emirates, Jordan, Lebanon, Morocco, Palestine, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Tunisia. This makes this catalogue the most comprehensive of the Arab Publishers and the one that maintains the most important database produced until now. A special thanks, thus, to the publishers who contributed to this catalogue. I sincerely hope that they will be hundreds next time.

I also hope that Arab publishers will be able to meet serious challenges: voting representative federations, lobbying, serious effective lobbying, finding solutions to the problem of book distribution in the Arab World, defending concept of intellectual property, modernizing the publishing industry by introducing new professional habits such as literary agents, removing progressively censorship, popularizing the e-book in the Arab market, introducing freedom of expression, and, finally, building bridges with the western and Asian non-Arab publishers. And I truly believe that these challenges will be met soon.

This catalogue is also being printed in a special occasion, that of the declaration of Beirut World Book Capital. "World Book Capital" is a title bestowed upon a city by UNESCO in recognition of the quality of its programs to promote books and reading and the dedication of all players in the book industry. Until now, eight cities have been designated as World Book Capitals - and Beirut has been the ninth. The Strategy of Beirut World Book Capital, drafted by the Lebanese Ministry of Culture, has been mainly based on a call for partnership with civil society, the private sector, embassies and other ministries. To this call for partnership, the Arab Publishers Association responded quickly, first, by organizing a regional workshop with relevant case studies about the problem of book distribution in the Arab World, and second, by producing this catalogue. Beirut has gathered Arab publishers.

Moreover, Beirut is known as the meeting point between East and West. From Beirut, the World Book Capital, we felt the desire to update our literary production and present it to Western publishers.

It is well-known now that a society discovers itself by looking at another society, and, precisely, that West needs East to discover itself. What is hidden in all these Arab books and their History? This catalogue is an invitation to discovery.

"The best of a book is not the thought which it contains, but the thought which it suggests, just as the charm of music dwells not in the tones, but in the echoes of our hearts", as Oliver Wendell Holmes said. Arab culture, its magic, its history and its secrets – all these are in its books.

Books to be discovered by you.

We, Arab publishers, are the custodians of a nation's soul – for we believe that the sum of books is culture, and not only books.

Bachar Chebaro

President of the of Arab and International Relations Committee
